

Disclaimer for Affiliates

As responsible NortheStar affiliates, it's crucial to prioritize transparency and compliance when discussing our revolutionary Thermobutyrate technology on social media. Including a disclaimer in your videos not only demonstrates your commitment to ethical practices but also ensures that viewers are aware that your statements are based on your personal experiences. By adding a disclaimer, you help set clear expectations and emphasize the uniqueness of individual responses to our products. This simple act not only aligns with our company values but also safeguards both you and your audience, fostering a trustworthy and informed community.

---

Affiliate Disclaimer: The statements made regarding NortheStar products have not been evaluated by the Food and Drug Administration. Our products are not intended to diagnose, treat, cure, or prevent any disease. The information provided in this post/video is based on the properties of the ingredient Thermobutyrate, individual responses may vary. This content is for informational purposes only and does not constitute medical advice. Any reliance on the information in this post/video is at your own risk. If you have any health concerns or questions, it is highly recommended to seek personalized advice from a qualified healthcare professional. Biologic Research Center has strived to offer valuable insights, but the ultimate responsibility lies with individuals to make informed decisions regarding their health and wellness.